FBI Review Completed

Dear Bill:

Enclosed as you requested is suggested draft language for inclusion in a list of proposals for controlling leaks as developed at the SIG-I November 20, 1984, meeting. The consensus was clear from the meeting that under the category of Presidential initiatives, a speech without action would produce very little except concerns and criticism from the press that a commission would take too long; that a meeting with the media would likely be unproductive and misconstrued; and that the most significant Presidential initiative would be for the President to call in his own people and place specific responsibility on them to take internal steps to deal with the problem. In that vein, you asked me to prepare some suggested language, which you will find enclosed.

Under the category of investigations, you included the use of polygraphs. If that area is developed, I adopt Mary Lawton's suggestion that rather than use the term "suspects" we refer to "persons who are or who have become a logical focus" for investigation.

Best regards,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster
Director
